

Edwin E. Gordon Research Fund Request for Proposals

The Edwin E. Gordon Research Fund supports research that furthers the study of music learning theory and the research base upon which it was created. Grants of up to $2000 will be awarded annually for outstanding projects. Applications for funding will be accepted between April 30 and June 15, 2018. Funds for awardees will be available on August 15, 2018. Applications will be evaluated on their contribution to music learning theory, thoroughness and quality of research design and methodology, as well as the reach of dissemination plans.

Funding:

Awards will be up to $2,000.

Applications will address:

- Title of Study/Project/Research
- Purpose and research questions (250 words)
- Summary of the study (250 words)
- Literature review of how the study is situated within music learning theory (500 words)
- Reference list
- Project description: type of research, design, participants, setting, methodology (750 words)
- Potential impact of findings (250 words)
- Timeline of the study (1 page)
- Plans for dissemination of results
- Research personnel bios (250 words) and CVs
- Detailed budget

Researcher(s) who receive this award must commit to presenting the findings of their study at the Gordon Institute for Music Learning Theory International Conference in August 2019, and submit a research to practice article that will be published in Audea.

Timeline:

April 30--Request for Proposals

June 15--Deadline for applications

July 15--Notification of awards

August 15--Release of funds

Please send inquiries and applications to:

Cory Micheel-Mays

Executive Director, GIML

execdir@giml.org